We have provided training courses for a wide range of sectors; upholstery manufacturers and retailers, leather merchants, leather care products, leather accessories and footwear. Some of these courses have been delivered here at Leather Wise and some at customers' own premises. Don't forget, we want to be as flexible as possible and will do our utmost to accommodate your company's particular training needs.

Amanda has been kept busy solving problems for tanneries, chemical suppliers, test houses and manufacturers and suppliers of a wide range of leather products. The types of problems we have solved are too varied to describe individually, but range from dirty stains on leather after tanning through to a consignment of 1,000 mouldy leather sofas! You will find that our Investigation Reports not only identify the cause of a problem, but also offer practical advice on how to rectify the problem or prevent it happening again.

NEW! NEW!
Due to popular demand, Leather Wise are now able to offer a Flammability Testing Service for upholstery and other products. We have negotiated a very competitive price with a UKAS accredited laboratory who can test a wide range of products for their compliance with relevant British Standards. Ask for a quotation!
